

Several months ago we decided to have a Christmas program. We scheduled it for two nights, Saturday and Sunday, December 17-18, 2012. Our folks practiced, and we prepared. We had posters and fliers all around our area in an attempt to lure people in who have not yet been to our church. For many, a Christmas program like this is uncommon. We had a lot of people who had told us they would be coming, but we had not anticipated a tropical storm hitting at the same time. We carried on, even with smaller-than-expected crowds and praised God for the several hands that were raised during the "intermission / invitation." We expect to see several of the visitors back again. Below are photos from our program.
